PLIGHT OF A POET.

His Vivid Imagination Once Nearly

Got Coleridge In Trouble. From his early youth Coleridge lived in a world of books and dreams, yet his favorite walk seems to have been the Strand, the last place in the world for a poet to lose himself in reverie. As he strolled down the street he imagined himself swimming the Hellespont, the feat of which other poets had written and which the poet Byron confirmed after three years. was to accomplish later. Once while the mind of Coleridge was thus far. from the busy Strand he absently thrust his hands before him in the manner of one swimming. Suddenly one hand came in contact with a gentleman's nocket.

The gentleman, thinking to capture a thief, seized the hand and exclaimed: "What! So young and so wicked!"

"Chair." Churchgoers who follow the service in their prayer books would certainly miss the "dear old phrase" concerning "quires and places where they sing," and in time the old fashioned "quires" may be made new fashioned again by CARROLL'S ORCHESTRA the coming of rationalized spelling. "Choir" was a most unnecessary outrage upon the language. The old English "quer" or "quere" became quite naturally "quyer" or "quire," and so it remained until the end of the seventeenth century, when somebody seems to have introduced "choir" because it looked more like the French "choeur," as if that were a valid reason. There could have been no danger of confusing a church "quire" and a "quire" of paper, which is a different word, the French "cahier," probably from Latin "quaternarium," a collection of four leaves.-London Standard.

Seventeenth Century Sheep.
"The best and biggest sheep," says Fuller in his famous "Worthies of England," published in the year 1602, "are those of the vale of Aylesbury, in Buckinghamshire, where it is nothing to give £10 or more for a breed ram. 14 and 15 Blanchard Building Telephone 21 So that should a foreigner bear of the price thereof he would guess that ram DR.
